

George W. Bush

The Question: In the election of 2000, who should be President: Bush, Gore, or Nader?

My Life: (Speak with a Southern drawl and consider making a Bush Cheney flyer as a prop).

- Sorry if my Southern drawl confuses you. In Texas, we call that talking.
- My father, George H.W. Bush was our 41st President and Reagan's Vice President.
- I went to Yale and was the president of my Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.
- Things got crazy after College. Don't ask about my time in the Texas Air Guard. No one really knows the details. Not even me. But, at least, I served unlike Nader.
- I straightened myself out after marrying Laura Welch, a school librarian. I became a born again Christian, bought the Texas Rangers baseball team. Now, I'm governor of Texas.

My Point of View and Personality:

- I am a conservative white male from the heart of Texas. I also love to paint.

My Platform: Why Should You Vote for Me?

I'm a compassionate conservative:

- As a compassionate conservative, I have two core beliefs: small government is the best and that people need to follow Godly values.
- The Clinton Administration, where Gore was Vice President, pushed for universal healthcare and threatened to use your tax dollars to pay for other people's illnesses.
 - If someone breaks their neck because they tried to do a cannonball from the roof of their house, then they should be paying the hospital bills. NOT YOU!
 - Lucky for you, Clinton and Gore came up short with their plan.
- Don't even get me started on Nader. He wants to use the environment as an excuse for taking your freedoms away. The Green Party wants to limit the amount of meat you can eat because cows make methane and methane makes the planet warmer.

I remember the Heartland:

- We need to remember the millions of rural communities in the Midwest.
- These are good old fashioned, mostly Christian, working people who must be respected.
- They don't want their hard earned money going towards the inner city where people live off of welfare checks and do nothing but watch soap operas all day.
- That's why they're going to vote Republican in the election.

I have a Pro-Democracy Foreign Policy:

- Let's face it American Democracy is the government of the future! Communism failed.
- There are a whole bunch of places in the world where we need to share our government like the Middle East. Saddam Hussein, Dictator of Iraq, I'm looking at you!
 - Your country needs freedom! We're coming for you!

(SAVE FOR ACT 2) (To Gore) The American people like me because Republicans have morals. The Democrats are morally bankrupt. Case in point, there was that little thing Clinton had with Monica Lewinsky. Where were the morals there? The Democrats turned the White House into a Jerry Springer episode. God doesn't like that! (He told me) We need God back in politics! (To his response) America is God's favorite country. When we attack people, it's OK (Scoff at his response)

(To Nader's Response) This is America! A land where every citizen is free to eat a double bacon cheeseburger with super sized fries and a Diet Coke anytime they want! If that freedom comes at the environment's expense, it's worth it! Anything less and America fails!
